

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers
Albuquerque District

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY WATER COMMISSION

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Albuquerque District has a long-standing cooperative working relationship with the International Boundary Water Commission (IBWC). Joint efforts by the two organizations have included: the El Paso-Las Cruces Regional Sustainable Water Project; potential environmental studies under the Co-Rio initiative; and discussions for possible partnership under Section 729, Water Resources Development Act of 1986. Currently, the Albuquerque District, and the IBWC are engaged in a watershed initiative on the Rio Grande below Elephant Butte Reservoir. This interagency effort is being done under the Economy Act.